Description of the late Rev. Danie. Ohaplin,
D.D. of Groton, and brother of the late Dr. James P. Chaplin of Cambridge port. His mother was a sister of the late Judge Prescott of Groton, and we believe he has two sisters living in that place. He is in age a little past lifty, without family, and a man of rare elequence and the lity with the pen.
He was formerly of the legal profession, but has of late years devoted himself to advortal labors in the State of New York, and correspondence from Washington, chiefly in connection with the AntiSlavery movement and the Liberty party.

Bonner Carre Crevasse.—The water having ceased to flow through this crevasse, in coase-quence of the fall of the river, we understand the work of reconstructing the levee will be commenced without delay. The planters in the maigh borhood have clubbed together, and agreed to furnish a force of 600 negroes to make the work, with the needful number of horses, curts, etc. It is proposed to carry the new levee further back from the river, and to make it in a very substantial manner.

IMPORTANT TO BILLIARD PLAYERS.

JUST PUBLICHED and for sale at the office of publication, it does not also at the rooms of the author, "The Alcade," it Barclays, rear of the Astor House, NY. "Billiards Without a Master," by Michael Pholon.—The shove named work the first American publication of the kind is i instrated by fify fine copper plate divigrams, each containing from one to twenty-four chus, from which say fielent knowledge may be acquired to enable the player to accomplish any possible stroke on the offlind take, at to which are fully explained on the pages opposite to the respective plates. The work contains an invaluable and original invention in the shape of a chart or scale of strengths, necessary to be used in making each shot, of an arrangement to simple that it can be comprehended by all, and will be found of the highest importance to the novice and anticur, as every shot there definested has been graduated by it, and the quantity of strength necessary to be used in given in the description annexed is each plate. It contains also, a full and complete set of rules for the government of the game of billiard and he various games of pool; hints to player; advice to ama-curs, with a variety of exp annitors interesting to all consected with billiards or billiard playing. To keepers of billiard rooms the "Rules" see worth more than the price of the work, and the bints and advice are invaluable. Accompanying the work is a treatise on the origin, rise and progress of the game. It is also embellished by a fine steel plate frontispiece, showing a billiard table and players in position. The above work is the most complete one of the sind ever produced in any part of the work, and the only one where the theoretical science and philosophy of the game has ever been thoroughly explained. make queer fish of other people. I never will admit that I write a bad hand, for after that all the blame would be laid on me. In the heading of tween somebody and somebody else, which the taken from horse racing. He must, I presume, have been more accustomed to propeller steam, bests. I presume again that his reading is quite as intelligible to the great mass of the readers of The Tribune, to say the least, as mine.

My long residence at the South has made me master of an that branch of polite learning which relates to the race-course, a species of accomplishment which, I fear, is sadily neglected at the North, not withstending the event propose by of Yankees and New Yorkers to boast of the perfection of their system of education. I might complain of some other little fanits of the press such as in mobilers for a name to be the press such as in mobilers for a name to be the press. Such as in mobilers for a name to be the press. Such as in mobilers for a secondoody says in an interesting book written by somebody, "I have always observed that whenever I say anything I am generally right."

brong the merning hour to-day Mr. Walker of Wis. as the Representative of Young America, brought up the bill for the distribution of the public lands to land lackers in general. To guard himself from imprudent expressions, which, as he said, might cause him to be misunderstood as uttering some of the absurdities of Socialism he had his speech written, and read it to the Secarte. After his carear against being regarded as a Socialist he wert on, and in good set terms uttered some of the greatest and most startling truths of Socialism. It was the first speech of the session in which a single idea—the growth of the present age—has been uttered. I repeat what I say. The speech of Mr. Walker to day, which was stared at and yawned over, and laughed at by learned and honorable Sonators on all hands, was the very first speech during the whole nine months of incessant discussion in which a single idea has been uttered which the world has hit upon during the last fifty years—the product of our day and generation. As for everything clae which has been said, from beginning to end, if the embalmed bodies of our dead ancestors could be galvanized into life and gathered into a Congress, every sentiment, every argument, and every appeal which has been utteroccupying a seat in the gallery, might have come from their lips without being charged with the sin of anackronism. Mr. Walker's speech was new in kind. It belongs to another age—another phase of civilization. Its delivery in the Senate marks an epoch. Mr. Walker is not, I believe, regarded by his brethren of the Senate as possessed of the highest grade of intellectual endowment—not a distinguished—not a leading Member, but there were twenty ideas in his speech to-day, any one of which, if it found its way into the brein of an old school politician would give him the headache for a week before he could matter it. I hope to see the speech cuternively published by the press, not because it may be either especially true or great for any of may be either especially true or great for any of those who are now so numerously and so profound-ly engaged on the great questions of natural jus-tice and the true conditions of men, but because it thee and the true conditions of men, but because it is the first breach made among us in the sphere of national legislation, through the damp cloister walls which encircle the relicts of the past age, by the rising waves of an intelligent, reflecting and reasoning philanthropy which mark the incoming of a better time. It matters not whother Mr. Walker chooses to be called a land reformer or a Socialist, or what not, he has led the way in the Senate of the United States in declaring great truths which are now up for a hearing before the world, and which no legislative body in this country at least can long continue to ignore.

I have put down first what I deem first in rank, notwithstanding the other great event which has signalized the day. The bill for the admission of California with her prosent Constitution, boundaries and representation, unchanged, as fixed by her own Convention, has passed the Senate by the large vote of 34 to 18.

own Conventien, has passed the Senate by the large vote of 34 to 18.

After the Senate adjourned last night, having ordered the bill to be engroused for a third reading, I had great misgivings about the result. Davis of Miss. had the floor for a speech. It was understood that CLEMENS, HUNTER and other Southers ultras, intended to speak, and, from certain indications, I conceived the idea that they had determined, by long winded harangues about nothing, to defeat the bill, at least until after the next resolution day in the House, so as to embarrass, as far as possible, the friends of California there.

But either they had no such design or they had thought better of it and abandoned the design. Mr Davis led off in a rather pretty finale of his desperate opposition to the bill, a sort of oratorical amalgam of the warning of Lochiel, the Lamentations of Joremish, and a good Bancombe stump speech for the latitude of Miss. The others followed in short speeches of various merits and speech for the latitude of Miss. The others followed in short speeches of various merits and dimensions, until finally the storm having fairly blown itself out, the little squad of Southern champions yielded gracefully to the decree of necessity and permitted the bill to be put upon its final passage. It has passed from the Senate into the House, there to be hoppled and made to wait for Texas and Utah and New-Mexico, and unaway "niggers," and everything else which the minority wants before the overwhelming majority in that House will be permitted to enact the simple declaration of their will upon a subject which has been debated already administration.

The Senate is now med for work. Before adjourning they called up the New Mexico territorial

Homicide in Baltimore County-Shocking

Gecurrence.

Yesterday morning one of the most shocking occurrences that we have had to chronicle for some time took place at Elysville, Baltimore County, about 25 miles on the Frederick Railroad. The particulars of the occurrence are about as follows: Some months since, Messrs. Miller & Mayhew, dry goods merchants of this city, purchased the factory at Elysville known as the Okisco Factory. The property had firmerly been owned by the Messrs. Asa & Hugh Ely, living at Elysville, and at the time of the last purchase a dispute arose in regard to the dam of the factory, which, according to the Messrs. Ely was on a portion of their land, for which they demanded to be paid a cortain sum. The sum demanded was not paid, the purchased dam when they purchased the factory. For some time past certain repairs have been wanting to the dam, but the Elys refused to permit the necessary work to be done until their claim should be settled. Thus matters stood until yesterday, when Mr. Pall, the person who had our contents the other reading for Messres. terday, when Mr. Pall, the person who had one-tracted to do the repairs for Messrs. Miller & May-lew, sont up a number of workmen to mend the dam, and precured the services of officer Stockett to see that no resistance was made. Accordingly, officer Stock at, together with officers Moon, Gambie and McInivre, of this city, left here yesterday morning with a versi of the workmen, and preceded by the early train to Elyaville. On arriving at the mill, thay were met by Mr. Ass Ely, who in strong language warned them not to attempt to make the repairs to the dam declaring with an imprecation that he would shoot the first man who attempted it! The efficer reasoned with him for some time, persuading him to allow with the law; that he would take it in his own hands, and leaving the apot, went to his house, a short distance off, and in a few minutes returned with a loaded gun and a large knife. His brosher, Hugh Ely, formerly a State Senator, returned with him, and both appeared greatly excited. By this time, the workmen, headed by Jacob Mortis of this city, one of the Sunday Police, appeared on the appeared in the stream to that on which the Ely a stool. Mr. Asa Ely addressed them and Eys stood. Mr. Asa Ely addressed tham, and again threatened to shoot them if they attempted to go to work upon the dam. At this Morks catered the mill and came back with a gun, when the workmen and himself entered the water and walked toward the center of the dam, whore the break was.

As Morris approached the middle of the dam, a young man who was standing by Mr. Asa Ely, and who is said to be a relative, urged him to shoot — The old man immediately raised the gue and took deliberate aim at Morris. The officers seeing this, cried out to Morris to go back, and rushed toward Ely to prevent him from shooting. Morris, sociag the intentions of Mr. Ely, turned and endeavored to retreat, but being up to his waist in water could not do so very fast, and looking back and sociag Mr. Ely with his gun, and fired at Ely at the same moment that he pulled his trigger. According to the evidence of the officers, both guns must have been discharged at the same moment. Morsis escaped unburt, but Mr. Ely fell mortally wounded, the load from Morris gun enterlay his cheet, and glancing upward passed out at the nape of the neck. Morris instantly surreadered himself to the officers, who immediately brought him to the city in the cars, which stopped at the place a few moments after the dreadial transaction. When the officers left, Mr. Ely was still living, but it was thought be could not do so many minutes. On arriving in the city about noon yesterday, an examination of the case was hold in the City Court room, before Judge Niebet. Deputy Actorney General Pinkney appearing for the State, and John Nelson, Esq. appearing for the State, and John Nelson, Esq. appearing for the State, and John Nelson, Esq. appearing to the case, Mearrs. Miller & May hew going his security. The general impression is that he acted in self-defense. Mr. As Bly, the person shot, is about 60 years of age, and, we believe, has always stood high in the estimation of those who knew him. The melaucholy cocurrence produced a most intense excitement at the villaga, and one member of his family endeavored to revenge himself by shooting Morris with the gun that fell from the hands of the wounded man. This, of course, was prevented by the officers who were towed down to the Naval anchorage (Nor break was.

PROVIDENCE, Tuesday, Aug. 15.
To the Editor of the Providence Journal:

cation between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans occupied the attention of the Spaniards as soon as it was satisfactorily ascertained that no natural communication existed. As early as 1527, the routes which have, by common consent, c to be regarded as the only feasibles ones fee such an undertaking, had already been indicated. From that period to the present time the subject of this communication has been a matter of much speculation; but beyond a single partial survey by an incompetent hand, nothing of a practical character has been attempted. The recent acquisitions of the United States on the Pacific, attended by the discovery there of great mineral wealth, have given this direction to American enterprise, and it is now probable that the two oceans will be connected by both a canal and railroad, and that a great revolu tion will, in a very few years, be effected in the commercial relations of the civilized world. It has been universally conceded that the only communication between the two oceans which shall really confer any great benefit upon commerce must be by means of a canal capable of passi with safety and rapidity the largest ships; and is has as generally been conceded, by those who have investigated the subject, that the only route pract cable for such a purpose is that via the River San Juan and Lake Nicaragua and its dependent waters. It has good harbors upon both coasts, and passes through a country remarkable for its sale; brity, and capable of furnishing all the supplies which would be required by the commerce of the world, should it take this direction.

But although it has occupied so large a share of the attention of all maritime nations, and furnished a subject for innumerable essays in almost every language of Europe, it is astonishing that so lit has actually been ascertained concerning it. The data upon which most writers have proceeded have been exceedingly vague, and have, in more than one instance, received an undue coloring from their prejudices. This renders it more important that a complete and accurate survey of the proposed route should be made by competent angineers; not a single reconnoisance, or a single line, but a thorough examination of every line which may be thought feasible."

The so called survey made by Mr. Bailey, undar the authority of the old Federation of Central Amer ica, has never been published in a complete form but its various parts and all of its results have, nevertheless, come before the public. Mr. Railey was not a practical engineer, and his survey only estab lished the impracticability of the line which he ex. amined, viz : from Lake Nicaragua across the narrow isthmus to the port of San Juan del Sar, of Concerdia. Any route for a ship canal which in volves the construction of a tunnel of any consider able extent, as this did, may be rejected wither forther consideration. While expressing little con-tidence in Mr. Bulley's abilities or judgment as ea engineer, it is just to say that his statements in re-
